Down Mexico Way Via Film

From Haliburton to Mexico City and back is quite a trip and not very many of us in person can actually make it however, on Monday evening last a good many of us made an imaginary trip to that land of sunshine, revolutions and bullfights.

The trip was made via colored motion picture film taken by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robertson who in company with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Herlihey of Wilberforce journeyed to Mexico City to attend a Rotary Convention.

Over one hundred ladies, members of Women's organizations of the other churches of Haliburton were the guests of the W.A. of the United Church for the occasion.

You could almost imagine yourself in the car as it left Haliburton southward on the long journey down to Windsor across the suspension bridge, passing through the central states we come to Kentucky with its beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains thence to Tennessee and before long we are across the border into Mexico. The scenery in places is very beautiful as we continue our journey to the capital, as Mexico is a land of much color this is tempered somewhat by the abject condition of poverty which is apparent on every hand.

You also note that fields are being cultivated in the same manner as in Biblical times. We soon come to Mexico City with its narrow streets which make motor travel a very trying ordeal.

After a short stay we again take to the road for a trip to that great seashore resort at Acapulco. It is here that we catch our first glimpse of the Pacific.

After a short stay here we again return to Mexico City and start the long trip home by way of Texas, making a short stay in Chicago, where in contrast to the ancient modes of production strands in Mexico we see a mighty piece of machinery that is capable of bulldozing and levelling and pouring a concrete top to completely finish one third of a mile of a two lane highway per day.

We are soon crossing the border and when we arrive on Kent St. in Lindsay we begin to feel at home. A little later we see a sign Slow Down Haliburton Speed Limit 30 miles and we know that we have reached the journey's end and that after all, "There's no place like home."

Mrs. J. A. Robertson who operated the picture machine is talented with an excellent memory for recalling places and events and her brilliant description of scenes and occurrences portrayed by the film contributed greatly to an evening's entertainment that was amusing, interesting and educational.

During the intermission Mrs. Melville McKnight and Maester Billie Gliddon rendered us a piano duet, Witches Flight. The talented young musician then favored us with a piano solo. We were also entertained by Miss Jane Minott who sang Perfect Day and Rose of Tralee.

Miss Clarke, Mrs. Davies and Mrs. G. Keefe thanked the W.A. on behalf of the Anglican, Baptist and Salvation Army ladies organizations respectively for the privilege of being present at the showing of this most interesting film. Mrs. M. Roberts expressed the pleasure of the I.D.K. Club.

A dainty lunch was served by the W.A. at the conclusion of the programme.

Winter may not be far away but from various samples brought in to the Echo office it looks as though summer—not winter—was approaching.

Mr. Richard Snider brought us a strawberry vine with a huge ripe berry on it. Mrs. Garnet Kell presented us with a branch covered in bloom, from an apple tree and Curry Motors gave us a bunch of roses in full bloom.

Last week we mentioned that Mr. John Hewitt of Minden had grown some mammoth potatoes, four of them weighing 7 lbs. 10 oz. Well this week we have on display 4 more potatoes grown by Dick Burke and these top the scales at 8 lbs., 5 oz., an average of two pounds 1 1/4 ounces each.

So this week our window is decorated with 2 lb. potatoes, ripe strawberries, roses and apple blossoms.

Hockey School Now Underway

Haliburton—Herb Baker, the local Recreation Director, announced today that the hockey school at the Haliburton Community Arena is now in full swing.

This school will be held every Monday and Wednesday evening for the younger ones from the hour of 7 to 9 in the evening. Herb went on to say that the Senior hours will be picked out at a later date. It is expected that the seniors will come on after the Juniors leave.

The school will include shooting practice, P.T. and instruction on the game. It is hoped that as many as possible will turn out to this pre season hockey school.

Letters To Editor

Minden, Ontario,
September 29th, 1952
The Haliburton County Echo.

The Editor:
I notice in your recent issue a report on an accident involving a school child that had just left a school bus. It is not the object of this letter to discuss the responsibility of the other driver involved, but rather to point out that in a great many states in the country to the South of us their highway acts require all traffic to come to a full stop when a school bus has stopped to take on or let off pupils. If such a regulation had been in force here this accident would not have happened.

With the increasing use of buses for the transportation of school children would it not be well for school boards and municipal councils to petition the Provincial Government to have such a regulation passed. In the meantime may I suggest to motorists coming on a school bus, and they now are required to have words "School Bus" prominently displayed on their vehicle, about to take on or discharge pupils to slow down until you know that such children have seen you and will not attempt to cross in front of you. It might take you a few seconds but it will save you the very uncomfortable position of being a party to the injuring of a child. I feel sure every thoughtful motorist will comply.

THOS. W. BRIGNALL,
Chairman Minden Twp. School Board.

Four Men Still Left In Haliburton Tourney

Haliburton—four men are still in the running in the Haliburton Highlands golf links 1952 tournament.

Yes, after three weeks of play the tournament is slowly drawing to a close. This week end sees the four men still left in battling it out to have a try at the finals. This week end the following will play off.

Bill Smith vs Bob Packard.
Hugh Nichol vs Fred Clements.

At the present time Bill Smith owner of Hillcrest Haven Lodge at West Guilford is the man favored to take the tourney. Bill has been shooting in the low thirties right along and that battle with him and Packard should be one of the best rounds. Fred Clements and Hugh Nichol will also be there fighting it out as one of these men will meet the winner of Smith and Packard in the finals.

Here And There

Congratulations to the Dysart Council who are doing some fine work this year and putting work on many of the roads. The first move they made was to pave half of the golf course road and this is certainly an improvement over the very rough roads of other years. Then another good move that is on at the present time is the construction of a sidewalk from the Haliburton village to the first crossing, something that has been needed for some time.

A report tells us that a shooting match will take place on Saturday October 11th, 1952 at Hector Bain's, 2 Miles south of West Guilford. The shooting will take place for turkeys and chickens. Plan now to attend

Huskies Meeting This Wednesday

The hockey boys are starting to talk their favourite sport now with the cold weather approaching. The first hockey club to take the step are the Haliburton Huskies who have set the date for their first hockey meeting. A meeting for the purpose of organizing the Haliburton Huskies hockey club will be held in the curling rink at Haliburton at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, October 8th. If you are interested in the club or the future of hockey in Haliburton you should attend this meeting.

The local Huskies are planning on a big season and hope to have some new faces in the lineup. A rumor tells us that the boys that wear the blue and white will go along with two lines this season and three defencemen. This move would cut the squad down a little.

Well lets get this season off to a flying start by attending the meeting next Wednesday evening.

On Friday, October 10th a fowl supper will be staged at Lochlin. This supper is being sponsored by the Lochlin United Church. The Lochlin United Church are always noted for holding good suppers.

Work is progressing at a good rate of speed on the new extension to Bolce Motor Sales in downtown Haliburton.

The ladies of St. George's W.A. held a very successful meeting at Hallmar Lodge on Tuesday night.

The Canadian Legion Branch 129 are getting ready to move into their new building.

The boys from Haliburton who attended the golf tournament at Minden on Sunday last all reported a very good time.

A Fire Hazard
Time To Remove

The march of progress has made many great changes in the Highlands of Haliburton in the past decade. We have seen vast areas of lakeland opened up, fine paved roads, splendid new homes, stores and lodges have been built and our towns have had a face lifting. All these things have tended to make the Highlands more and more popular with our summer visitors, but, there is one ugly and menacing blot that still clings to our towns, old shabby dilapidated sheds and barns. Being built of lumber and in many cases open for anyone to enter, they are an ever present fire hazard.

These old buildings composed mostly of sheds to shelter the farmers horses when they came to town, or ice houses, a necessary building to store ice, before the era of the electric refrigerator and stables built by the business people to house their driving horses and in many instances a cow and a pig or two have outlived their usefulness and are now rapidly falling into decay.

The land that they stand on would be much more valuable if it were used as parking space in the summer when parking space in our towns is so badly needed.

Besides making our villages safer from fire, removal of these old eyesores would greatly improve the appearance of the business sections.

Holiday For Newsboys

More than eighty happy youngsters will be travelling to Ottawa early in November, visiting points of interest along the way, seeing all the sights of Canada's historic capital, and generally having a grand time while they learn about their country.

At least two air conditioned, radio equipped 40 passenger buses will leave Toronto Monday, November 10 at 8:30 a.m. with a passenger list of over eight carrier-salesmen of the The Toronto Telegram, hailing from all over Ontario.

First scheduled stop will be at Treneon RCAF Station, where the young sight seers will lunch. At Kingston they will visit Royal Military College (Canada's oldest) and historic Fort Henry, more than 126 years old.

After dinner and checking into their hotel, the group will enjoy special evening entertainment.

The educational aspect of the visit will resume early Tuesday morning November 11th, when the youngsters will visit the Royal Canadian Mint at Ottawa to see how money is made. Later that morning they will attend Remembrance Day Ceremonies at the National War Memorial.

They will lunch with Members of the House of Commons in the Parliamentary Restaurant. They will also tour the Parliament Buildings and see the beautiful Gatineau Valley from the capital's Peace Tower.

At Rockcliffe, Ottawa's RCAF Station they will watch jet planes. They will continue to Rideau Hall the residence of Canada's Governor General. Later, they will have a chance to watch lumberjacks on the Ottawa River at the Eddy Paper Co.

One item of the itinerary which the youngsters will "eat up" is dinner at one of Canada's finest hotels, the Chateau Laurier. This will be followed by entertainment specially suited to their young tastes.

Wednesday morning the carrier-salesmen will visit the barracks of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. On the way back to Toronto, they will stop off at Peterborough to view the General Electric plant, and Peterborough's lift locks, among the world's largest. Wednesday night, the youngsters will be back in Toronto.

Those chosen for this tour will be all carrier-salesmen of The Telegram, both in and outside Toronto, who have increased the number of subscriptions on their routes by 15 or obtained 30 orders anywhere.

Since boys in small towns have not the same number of prospects to call on as those in larger centres, The Telegram will arrange for the two top boys from Ontario in communities under 4,000 population, to go on the trip, regardless of the number of orders they have secured.

The local carriers who are to go on this trip are Robert Lazier and Gerald R. Coulter of Minden; Earl Winterburn of Norland and Neil Murcheson of Victoria Road.

FOREST PROTECTION . . .

Fall Tree Planting Programme Underway

Reforestation of suitable non productive lands in the Trent District has, until this year, been confined to planting waste areas in the more southerly part of the district. These areas offer good planting chances, and are on lands acquired by Conservation Authorities, and Counties under the authority of the Municipal Reforestation Act.

Forest tree production at the Provincial Forest nurseries has been greatly increased during the past six years, and it is now possible for the Department to enlarge its reforestation programme to include suitable Crown land areas in the northerly part of the district.

A survey for this purpose was made in part of Methuen Township in Peterborough County, last summer, and as a result of the findings about 75,000 trees will be planted this Fall, commencing during the week of September 22nd. Following the completion of this project a further Fall planting programme will be started at the Northumberland County Forest north of Cobourg.

Favourable Fall weather has permitted the transfer of Forest Protection personnel from their stations at observation towers and ranger headquarters to a number of improvement projects which are now underway. These projects include a new headquarters building at Gooderham, a bridge in Bruton Township, public parking areas on lakes, roads leading into observation towers, and reconstruction of telephone lines. Earlier in the year a new tower and ranger's cabin was built near Madawaska Lake.

HISTORY of the PROVISIONAL COUNTY of HALIBURTON

Compiled by R. H. BAKER

BUILDING THE RAILWAY

It seemed to take a long time to actually build the Victoria Railway, for which people were so eager, although a start was made as soon as was practically possible.

However, it was finally built to Fenelon Falls, and the people there put themselves in a position to pay the sum of fifteen thousand dollars toward the project.

During the next year track was completed to Kilmount, but no grading was done in Haliburton County until 1877. It was then that the people in this district began to renew their courage, for some of them had actually been to Kilmount and had gone down on the train to Lindsay, others had heard the whistle of the engine, which was something to brag about in those days.

The right of way had been purchased and much clearing done, but the army of workmen continued their operations and soon were building Minden station, and trains were actually running in Haliburton County. But when the Post Office was established, the name of the station was changed to Gellert.

Some grading had been done north of this, but it was during the summer of 1878 that the road was graded and steel laid through to Haliburton.

The first through train, consisting of flat cars, decorated with balsam trees, afforded some shelter for those who sat on the planks arranged for seats, constituted the first excursion train, which was well patronized.

It was, however, predicted by some that the road would not pay and that, in a few short years, the grass and weeds would hide the rails and that two or three trains a week would amply serve the purpose, now after a lapse of half a century the road is said to be a paying proposition while the road bed is in excellent condition, with a 90 lb. rail replacing the very light ones of those former days.

MINDEN TOWNSHIPS

Surveyed in 1855 Minden Township is called after one of the oldest towns in Germany, Minden in Westphalia, Prussia, noted for its stone bridge, 640 feet long over the Weser, which was built in 1518, for its strong fortress, for its sugar, vinegar, beer and brandy factories and particularly for the great battle fought at Todenhausen, three miles from Minden, in the same year that Quebec was taken from the French.

During the World War, one of the Canadian soldiers from Minden, Ontario, a son of the late Wm. Heard, formerly of Allsaw, was interned at Minden, Germany, and later boasted of his good treatment there.

Minden village is built on the boundary between Minden and Anson Townships and the Anson side of the village has been practically wiped out by fire on two occasions, March 17th 1879 and July 28th 1890.

The Bobcaygeon road which runs on the boundary between Minden and Anson, crosses the Gull River at this point, and the first post office was named Gull River. Some few years afterwards, the name was changed to Minden.

Eight miles north of Minden village, at the Junction of the Peterson and Bobcaygeon roads and an hotel, two stores and a few dwelling constituted about half as much village as was then at Gull River, but travel on the Peterson road west was soon abandoned and the village at the Junction was short lived.

In those days wheat could be grown in this locality and in 1864 Hugh McKim built a saw mill and flour mill, one and a half miles up the river from Minden. The late Thomas Stinson, father of T. H. Stinson, Esq. M.P. of Lindsay took charge of these mills and in a few years the stone grinding equipment of the flour mill had to be removed and a more modern roller process installed, by which a better grade of flour was turned out, where home grown and imported western wheat was converted into a grade of flour in demand at the stores of nearby villages. The milling and lumbering business had become an accepted benefit to the entire community, and continued for so many years.

In 1865 Mr. Richard Smith built a water power sawmill just north of Austins Narrows now Ingoldby.

In Minden Township are the following Post Offices viz: Minden; Ingoldby; Allsaw; Blairhampton; Elsie and Carnarvon and the last named being quite a village.

Emily Weaver, author of "A Canadian History for Boys and Girls" in her story of the Counties of Ontario says, The oldest village in the County of Minden, situated at a point where the Bobcaygeon Road crosses the Gull River. The first settlers arrived there about 1859, and by 1864 the village was able to boast of a saw mill about a mile up the river, and of a store or two, a blacksmith shop and a hotel. She continues to say that on New Years Eve, 1864, a dance began at Bucks Hotel which with slight intermissions lasted four days and five nights.

In 1862, a Methodist minister, Rev. William Sheridan was stationed at Minden having the entire new settlements of Minden, Sowdon, Anson, Lutterworth and Stanhope townships under his charge. According to his own account, he and his wife received less than $200.00 in cash that year.

On August 21st 1884, the first copy of the Minden Echo was printed by Brown and Small, who were succeeded by the late J. H. Delamere Esq. who after many years, sold to R. H. Baker, who continued the publication for fourteen years. He in turn sold to Mr. W. MacArthur, the present publisher. Throughout the many years of its publication, the Minden Echo has endeavoured to uphold the rights of the heroic and energetic people of the County. The Echo enjoys a goodly advertising and subscription patronage.

The Minden Echo was owned by the MacArthur family until 1948. It is now known as the Haliburton County Echo. —Editor.

Rotary Club Hold First Fish Derby

Haliburton — The Haliburton Rotary club held their first fish derby last Thursday on Crooked Lake. Although the fish were few and far between it was a great success otherwise.

The Rotary Club were well pleased with the many outside Rotarians who came for the Derby.

At one o'clock in the afternoon the regular meeting of the club and their luncheon was held. Guest speaker was Mr. Chas. Weir of the Department of Lands and Forests. Mr. Weir gave a short talk on fishing and game and was enjoyed by all the fishermen present.

After the meeting the visitors and the local Rotarians got into their boats and the fish derby was off to a flying start. The only drawback to the day was the fact that only three bass were caught and over 100 fishermen tried their luck.

Some of the local guides namely Morris Cook, Jack Rule and Reg Sprouts and others are to be thanked for helping with the Derby. Mr and Mrs Dick Clarke are also to be complimented on a delicious dinner. The following out of town Rotarians attended the derby—

Sterling Club are R. B. Bell; R. O. Phillips; Harold Wells; J. W. Wright; Ev. Ketcheson; Bert Woodbeck; Harold Bird; Al Greenley; Albert Fraser; Geo. Noble; Bob Hutton; Doug Patterson.

Weston-Mount Dennis Club are Bill Ward; Bill Hales; Jim Graham; Andy Anderson.

Second Round At Beaverbrook This Sunday

Over 25 golfers teed off last Sunday for the annual golf tournament at the Beaverbrook Golf Course at Minden. Included with the Minden players were 12 from Haliburton who are also in the tourney. Some discussion came up on Sunday on the topic of the handicaps handed out. But it seems that it has all been settled now and the final round will be played this Sunday.

The boys from Haliburton would like to take this opportunity to thank Roy Windover for the delicious supper which he held at his home. After the game Roy invited all the players from Haliburton over to his place for the supper.

This was a swell gesture on the part of Roy Windover a great sportsman in any ones books.

Dysart Home And School

At the regular executive meeting of the Dysart Home and School Association last Monday evening, Mr. Harry Bagshaw proposed a motion that a resolution be forwarded to the municipal council requesting that a law be passed requiring all traffic from both directions to come to a stop while school buses are taking on or discharging passengers.

It was the unanimous decision of the executive that this resolution also be forwarded to the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations for presentation to the Ontario government.

This discussion emphasized that this law is rigidly enforced in most of the forty eight states of the U.S.A., and that it is expedient that Ontario children should enjoy such safety protection, especially in view of a recent serious accident here.

The opening meeting of the Association will be held on Monday evening, October 20th in the High School. The theme of this meeting will be health and safety, and the speaker will be the new school nurse, Miss Minet. It is hoped that a film on safety may also be obtained. Drivers of school buses will be invited to present their suggestions for safety features pertaining to their responsibilities.

Elizabeth Long, Supervisor of Women's Interests for the CPC, has announced the opening of a new series of 45 minute programs entitled "Trans Canada Matinee". The first in the series will be presented September 29th. The programs will appeal to afternoon listeners and will include discussions, talk and new on current topics of interest, along with music and a few helpful hints for housewives.

ANNE HIRST

Your Family Counselor

"Dear Anne Hirst: My husband can't seem to keep a job. He has six or seven a year! We have four small children, and after each one came I went to work to help out.

"He can't get along with his fellow employees or his bosses. If his employers knew him like I do, they would just ignore his talking so much. He says lots he doesn't mean, and is always going to do so-and-so; but by tomorrow he's thinking of something else. "A friend got him a very good job three months ago. He's already having trouble; he thinks his bosses are trying to run over him.

"What on earth can I do? Before, I've just sat back; but I can't let him lose this one. I've tried talking and he only gets mad . . . We haven't much, but we could have, if he'd only change. Please help me, and him.

A WORRIED MOTHER

Who Can He?

I see no sure solution to your grave problem. Your husband has never learned to cooperate with other people, or admit that the owner of a business (who has invested his money) has the right to determine the methods his workers employ. Although ignorant of a job, he is too arrogant to accept instruction or suggestions; he thinks he knows best.

During my years in business, I saw one man and woman after * another dismissed because they * could not get along with other * people. Capable, often brilliant, * they would not understand that * without general harmony and * goodwill, no business can prosper. Like your husband, they felt * too superior to cooperate; they * wanted to run the place.

* Here is one suggestion:

* Is your husband's father living? * He, or some trusted older friend * whom he admires, may be able * to explain the fundamental principles of business success, and * urge him to adapt himself to them, * however unwelcome. All he needs * to do is to cooperate with his * co-workers, and cultivate a suitable respect for the man who * pays his salary. Surely, for your * sake and his children's, he should * listen to reason.

* Your determined loyalty * through the years has put him * vastly in your debt. This is how * he can repay you—or, at the very * least, make the effort.

If your husband's repeated failures are getting you down, ask Anne Hirst what to do. She has practical ideas that will help, and her sympathy will lighten your burden. Write her at Box 1, 123 Eighteenth Street, New Toronto, Ontario.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

Gwendoline D. Clarke

As we go through life there are frequently times when we make friends only to lose them in a very short while. Saying goodbye on such occasions can hardly be classed as one of the happy experiences of life. And never is this so true as when a well-liked and respected minister accepts another call or moves to a new parish or diocese.

A minister can mean a lot to his people — sometimes more than he or the people ever realize. Too often a minister is taken too much for granted, whatever he does is looked upon as just "part of his job". We do not always know him as well as we might; probably we do not attend church as regularly as we should. But yet, always at the back of our mind, we know he is there, ready to give comfort and solace in time of stress, and to advise and encourage when life presents more problems than we know how to face. When people are sick he is a frequent visitor; he is called upon to officiate at weddings, baptisms and funerals and his presence is always looked for at social functions in connection with church organizations — and with other events of social and public interest.

And the minister's wife is equally busy. There are more demands on her time and privacy than most women have to face. In addition she needs the patience of Job and the combined tact of a dozen women. In church groups she must show sympathetic understanding for all and yet take sides with none. She must be the perfect diplomat. She must be able to meet intellectuals on their own level and yet understand the problems and the viewpoint of the working people.

There are times when she must be irritated beyond measure at the frequent bickering common to all classes but the prerogative of "speaking her mind" is not for her.

The doctor's wife need not necessarily be a ministering angel; the lawyer's wife may be ignorant of legal affairs; but the minister's wife is expected, by many folk, to be a paragon of all the virtues. Have a heart, dear people, and be less demanding upon your minister's wife. Being set upon a pedestal may be as uneasy to a person as wearing a crown.

Of course, if a minister and his wife possess a sense of humour, it may lighten their load considerably. I remember, some years ago, attending a church tea, at which I noticed a particularly garrulous female had attached herself to the young rector. When he finally broke loose, I saw him glance across the tea-tables to his wife, and I saw the slight but definite wink that passed between them. It spoke volumes. To me that almost imperceptible wink explained, to a certain extent, the secret of this young minister's success — for he was popular in social life as well as being a wonderful preacher. There is no limit to what can be accomplished by a man of God with a saving sense of humour.

As you may have guessed there is a reason for this preamble of mine. Yes, all these thoughts have come to me because we are losing our present young minister and his wife, to whom people in the parish have become much attached. His name is the Reverend Homer Ferris, and he came to us from the small town of Arthur, Ontario. Now, after being in this district for only three and a half years, he is moving to Port Colborne. We, at Ginger Farm, did not know this young couple as well as we should have done — which was our fault, not theirs — but we had always looked forward to the time when we would know them better. Now that opportunity has gone. We shall never know them better, but we can at least remember their unfailing willingness to help us at a time when help was greatly needed. And we shall always remember the happy, good-natured smile with which Mrs. Ferris always greeted us, even though the support we should have given her in carrying out her arduous duties had often been sadly lacking. It is possible we regret their going more than those who knew them better because we have the uncomfortable conviction of losing those who might have been our friends.

Perhaps our experience is also that of a few other folk and may be the means of encouraging some of you to get better acquainted with your minister and family before he, too, is moved to another district.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Should a married woman, whether her husband is living or deceased, always be addressed socially as Mrs. James J. Johnson?

A. Socially, Mrs. Mary Johnson is in extremely bad taste for both a wife and a widow. In business or a profession, "Mrs. Mary" is usually unavoidable, but she should never be so addressed in social life.

Q. Is it proper to take chicken or chops up in the fingers when eating?

A. Chicken and chops are not finger foods, except at a picnic. Anyone who has learned to eat properly can, with a little practice, cut all the meat from the bones without waste.

Q. Is there any polite way I can tell certain guests not to put their feet on my good furniture? So many of them persist in sitting with their feet tucked under them, and their shoes on my chairs.

A. About the most tactful thing I can suggest is that you provide yourself with a couple of footstools. With more of a helpful manner than a critical one, you can then say, "Oh, I'm so sorry you had no footstool!"

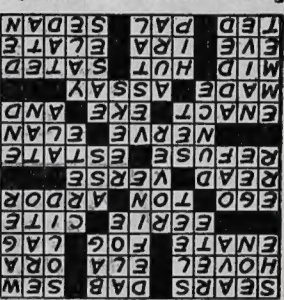

Q. What would be a suitable breakfast menu following a small, simple wedding?

A. Fruit (chilled melon, grapefruit, orange or tomato juice), eggs with bacon or sausage, muffins, hot buttered toast, marmalade and jam, and coffee.

Q. When you are going to have a very large number of guests at a bridal shower, is it all right to stipulate "linen" to some of them, "kitchen" to others, and perhaps "lingerie" to others?

A. No; it is best just to call it a "bridal shower" and allow the guests to choose what they please.

THE CALL OF GOD

Isaiah 55:1-3

The Divine Vastness—The Human Vagueness

"Harken unto me, hear and your soul shall live".

The message of the prophet Isaiah to whom was given the vision of God and through whom we hear the voice of God.

In old Testament times, the prophet was the witness of God to man, the priest the witness of man to God. The one stood between God and man, the other between man and God. Both these sacred offices being fulfilled and perfect in the person of Jesus Christ, Prophet Priest and King.

The prophetic message therefore is supremely important as it is the self revelation of God.

It reveals the Divine Vastness and the Human Vagueness. First we have revealed to us The Majesty of God — the Vastness divine — God over all.

The all pervading Presence revealed progressively, Eternal, Universal, embracing all things, ever contacting never silent. The Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the ending, the predetermined purpose revealed progressively; His voice in the voice of the prophet creating and changing for He is the decisive factor in history and in life: He controls all issues, allowing, constraining and compelling; Creator, Redeemer, Restorer. What He has purposed shall surely come to pass.

The Heavens declare the Glory of God; His Majesty and might. But that is not enough, we have to know:—

The Mind of God — "Harken unto me, hear and your soul shall live".

The mind of God is the mind of Christ, and we have the mind of Christ. When on the Mount of transfiguration with His disciples, Peter, James and John, there appeared in communion with Him and transformed with Him, Moses and Elias, representing the past of the law and the prophets, Peter beholding, and not understanding, suggested raising three tabernacles, representing the past and present there came the enveloping cloud and a voice from the more excellent Glory saying — "this is my Son, my beloved, hear ye Him".

When the voice was past, and the cloud lifted, they saw Jesus only. So the voice of Jesus is to us the voice of God. In Him, we have revelation perfect and complete. "He who has seen Me hath seen the Father". He is the interpreter and interpretation of the Divine Mind. The Logos, the Word and Wisdom of God revealed in His person. The perfect expression of the Father, the central fact and figure in Time and Eternity. God's mind revealed. The Divine eloquence. The person of Christ is the expression of God. The Passion of Christ is the Passion of God.

The human apprehension and understanding of these holy verities is yet imperfect — "for now we see as through a darkened glass but then face to face". The finite mind cannot fully grasp the mind of the infinite, and so there is:— The Message of God — The Human Vagueness.

The past of history and religion show this human vagueness. The cry of a great human need. We see the same thing today in the pagan and heathen world. A human reaching upward. A delfying of human conceptions. The idea of God or the gods according to the human mind. Even the savage has his gods however primitive.

All this, past or present a sense of fear and the grasping of man for that which satisfies and allays his fear. "Man cannot live by bread alone."

In this our day, the fear and need is becoming more vocal. There is a great awakening among the native world of Asia and Africa, largely caused by the impact of Western civilization, and is the explanation of much of the world's unrest. They are seeking a better fuller life mainly along material lines.

It is the vagueness; the cry of a great need. A hungering after better things that can only be satisfied by God.

Unfortunately they are asking for bread and are being given a stone. Their need is the message of God. The answer to their hungering is His word, the Bread of Life. The Spirit and Life. So Jesus is the answer. "I am the Bread of Life. He that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst." Satisfied forever.

What will happen depends largely on our attitudes and actions. His message is through to them. We may fall God and them, yet His blessed purpose and promise are sure. His mercy and Grace are to all peoples. All will come to pass when the intensity of His passion is seen in the intensity of our purpose. His love in us and through us. The world pervading of the spirit of Christ will transform all.

He is calling to us and to them "Harken unto me, hear and your soul shall live". There is ever the Goodness and mercy of God. The Mercy of God — Changeless and unchanging, an attribute Divine. We are unworthy of the least of His mercies, "Yet His Mercy endureth for ever".

It belongs to the infinite mind and springs from the infinite mind,

The Tale of the Country Toad

A young and handsome country toad

Was as miserable as could be, He thought the place for him to go

Was to the big city

So one fine day he started out Dressed in a bright brown coat He bid goodbye to all his friends Said he'd write them each a note.

He hopped along the country road, The day was very fine, 'Twas many miles he had to go But he had lots of time.

He hopped beside the great highway It took him most a year And all his former friends at home Said "he is dead I fear".

But in the distance now he saw The city of his dream Great crowds of buildings hemmed him in With noise and haste, the theme.

Now on the sidewalk every day The people moved so fast, He dodged so many toes and heels Just how long would he last?

On the road it kept him hopping There were street cars there you see— And street car tracks are not the place

For any toad to be.

He found a tiny little yard But some children came to play And with them came a little dog That chased the toad away.

Now the young and handsome country toad Said can't they let me be This nightmare of a city life Is never meant for me.

I guess I'd better head for home 'Twill take another year When back once more with all my friends I've nothing more to fear.

So with his face turned towards his home, He hopped along his way A sadder and a wiser toad You could not find that day.

Now handsome toad has found green fields That beckon us afar, Prove opportunity is best And greener where you are.

—Mavis Nolce.

ad His goodness and mercy are found in His Message:— "Harken unto Me, hear and your soul shall live". There's a wideness in God's mercy Like the wideness of the sea. There's a kindness in His justice Which is more than liberty. For the love of God is broader Than the measure of Man's mind And the heart of the Eternal Is most wonderfully kind.

—Rev. J. M. Fleming.

Know Your Land

Information by which farmers may know the use for which their land is best suited is provided in a new circular "Know Your Land" prepared by the Soils Department of the Ontario Agricultural College.

The circular divides all land into eight classes. Classes 1 to 4 are suitable for cultivation, with Class 1 being suitable for very intensive cultivation and a wide range of crops. Classes 5 to 8 are listed as not being suitable for cultivation and are suitable for a still narrower range of crops. Photographs and detailed information are supplied for each class of land.

Dance At Slipper Saturday Nites

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

It was more annoying than funny at the time, but, looking back now, we find a certain degree of hilarity marked the end of the Olympic Games.

And of all things, the laughs were provided by the sombre Russians. When they were edged out on total points by United States athletes, on the standard scoring system, they promptly invented their own, and proved that they were the winners. It was so childish, so obviously in the naive Russian mould of propaganda, that at this distance, it's good for a chuckle.

And it's our notion that the international importance of the Olympics, as proving that any one country is physically better than another is just plain silly. Ideally, the Games are competitions among individuals; not between countries. Some countries have these individual stars at various times, some haven't. For popular consumption a newspaper scoreboard is kept. But triumph doesn't necessarily represent a national superiority over the countries which didn't do so well.

This being so, we're glad the United States won the mythical title. For the difference between a Russian and an American overall points victory is that the Soviet propaganda machine would have made this a tremendous spring-board for boasting the decadence of the "imperialistic" countries, as compared with the virility of Stalin's empire. America will merely boast its undeniably great athletes and attach no globular political significance to the outcome.

Superiority is running, or jumping, or throwing weights proves nothing as indicating one nation is more virile, stronger, than another. If it did, then Czechoslovakia would outrank all others, for they sent to the Games the greatest athlete of all, Emil Zatopek, the man who scored the unbelievable triple. We suspect that Russia went into the Games to prove what the propaganda machines would label national superiority, and they almost did it. We suspect, too, that the Soviet master-mind would not have allowed a Muscovite team to enter unless they were considered loaded; lest the cause of collectivism be set back by defeats on athletic fields.

That's the reason there developed that childish stratagem, a re-arrangement of the scoring values, to convince the folks at home that Russia really won, but was robbed by the money-baron of Wall Street.

Let's forget any national significance or racial superiority that points-victory in the games might be taken to prove. Our own Canada didn't get many points in the Olympics, but we happen to think, even so, that Canada is a very swell country in which we prefer to live in preference to all others, even if we never score another Olympic triumph.

Your comments and suggestions for this column will be welcomed by Elmer Ferguson, c/o Calvert House, 431 Yonge St., Toronto.

SPORTS & A SIXBIT CRITIC

To nine Canadians out of ten today the name of Ned Hanlan means very little. They know, possibly, that he cut quite a figure in some sort of water sport, and that Hanlan's Point—a sandbar off the Port of Toronto, densely populated in summertime by sunburn-seekers—was named after him. But that is about all.

But there was a time when Ned Hanlan was a bigger athletic figure throughout Canada than "Rocket" Richard is today in Montreal; and although we never personally saw him in action, we can well recall a time when a barroom without a large lithograph of "The Boy in Blue" on its walls was considered to be as poorly furnished as one without spittoons—we mean, of course, cuspidors—on the floor, or free lunch on the counter.

From time to time the noted American author, Samuel Hopkins Adams has been doing some reminiscing regarding the State of New York, particularly in and about Rochester back in the 1870's and thereabouts; and in the August 23 edition of The New Yorker he has a most interesting article about one Asa T. Soule, who peddled a patent medicine called Hop Bitters with considerable success—it had an alcoholic content greater than whiskey although the folks who swore by it didn't know that—and also dabbled in sports promotion. And sports promotion in those halcyon times must have been no game for a nervous man. "There is no sport which is not contaminated and, in large measure controlled by the gambling fraternity. A square contest of skill is hardly to be expected" is the way that one Rochester editorial writer put it, and Mr. Adams comments that this was not much of an exaggeration.

What especially intrigued us in the article was the part dealing with the famous sculling races between Charles E. Courtney of Union Springs, New York, and Edward Hanlan of Toronto, billed as for "the championship of the world" which both men claimed. The following quotes will give you an idea of how interesting the article will prove to anyone who likes to hear or read about sports of a bygone era.

"Courtney—as a youthful carpenter without rowing experience, had built his own boat, entered a regatta at Cayuga Lake, and outdistanced a large field of professionals. Thereafter his career was checkered, not to say spotted. At his best he was unbeatable; at all times unreliable. Once, just before a race, some miscreant is supposed to have poisoned his iced tea, surely an unusual beverage for an athlete to indulge in at such a moment. Another time, a submerged wire wrecked him in mid-course without leaving any mark on his shell. Notwithstanding, he was the idol of his countrymen."

"Hanlan, six years younger, was simply and solely a first class workman at his calling. With his clumsy, humpy and dogged stroke, so different from Courtney's smooth style, he had vanquished opponent after opponent on both sides of the Atlantic. His one meeting with Courtney had resulted in victory, but the beaten man's backers emphatically considered the test unsatisfactory and inconclusive, complicated as it was by a near foul. Those cantankerous characters William H. Vanderbilt and James Gordon Bennett came forward—with an offer of a six thousand dollar purse, which was agreeable to the two oarsmen. But the financiers fell out over some detail—and withdrew the offer."

"Enter Asa T. Soule to fill the vacuum—he and his Hop Bitters Company would put up the stakes. He summoned the rivals and their backers to a meeting at the Brackett House in Rochester, the aftermath of which was a powerful stretch. The sessions were private—but even so the Democrat and Chronicle detected 'some very curious shenanigans'—William Blaikie, a former Harvard stroke, was agreed upon as referee. His was the only reputation which survived the event unsmirched."

"As the day of the race approached Chautauqua became the sporting centre of the United States. Gamblers and sharpers from all parts of the country converged on it. Mayville, the principal town near the course of the race, swarmed with underworld denizens. Loose females flaunted exotic finery on hotel verandahs. Room and board rose from five dollars a week to twelve dollars a day. A local Presbyterian clergyman cried from his pulpit, 'The seven plagues of Egypt swarm about us, and Hell's foul rays are focussed upon our unhappy village.'"

"Betting was fast, furious and variable. Wild rumors kept the odds wild. Hanlan was reported by the Associated Press to be so out of condition that he would not be able to row before spring. Courtney—suffered from ague and sore hands. Two days before the race, an unidentified man, who may or may not have had inside information, waved a hundred dollar bill from the steps of the Mayville post office and offered to lay it against twenty that Courtney would not come to the scratch. There were no takers."

We haven't the time or the space to quote more regarding the fascinating preliminaries. Look up the article yourself, or when the book is published, don't miss it. But as to the race itself,

Had Eczema Around Ankles For Years

Read Her Letter

"I want to say that for many years I have been tormented with Eczema on my ankles," writes Mrs. A. C. S. Whittier, Calif. "Moone's Emerald Oil was recommended and one bottle was all I needed, and for two months has seemed perfectly well."

Dysart Recreation Highlights

The Dysart Recreation Committee along with the Recreation Director are getting things in shape for the Fall and Winter Recreation season that lies ahead.

At the present time the Recreation Director is busily employed getting the various people together to look after the winter activities. As for the playground in the Community Park that's just about over now with Fall here.

The badminton season is now on at the Community Arena and the nights being set aside for badminton are Tuesday and Thursday nights. Anyone wishing to play badminton are asked to get in touch with the Recreation Director. It is expected that a badminton tournament will be staged in the near future with trophies going to the winners. One idea is to have a singles tourney and then advance on with the doubles. A draw will be made and then the tournament will be underway.

Nights for table tennis have not been allotted at this time.

It is understood that Art Classes will be started in the very near future. A place to hold these classes is being arranged. Wood work will also soon be started.

They regaled us with a half hour programme during which there were a couple of sets of square dancing led by Lawrence Pritchard and Boyd Balkwill.
